A Personal Message from Mary

Dear MasterMinder,

Do you think being kind is co-dependent?

April's TeleClass was about Formulating MasterMind Requests for Other – Distant Healing.

After the class, one of the participants wrote:

Hi Craig, I was on the call tonight and another question came up for me after the call. I am hoping you could have Mary answer via email.

Part of the issue I shared on the call was "when I speak up about an injustice, I only receive further comments of injustice", for example, I am being told because of my speaking up, "when we try to change things outside of ourselves, we are being co-dependent, so stop."

I really need help with how to handle a response. With all my heart, I appreciate Mary's help and guidance. Thank you so much! Blessings, M L

I am not offering a TeleClass this month, but I thought you would like to hear the 30 minute unedited consult I did with Marla after our class. Click here to listen.

Mary

PS ... you may be asking, "What else happened in April's 2-hour and 40 minute TeleClass & MasterMinding Coaching session?"

An Aussie man gets a new visual and MM "see back" for a 40 year old health issue. An 85 year old WWII Veteran lifts, transforms and dissolves his concern about his past blame of other people for his resulting life circumstances. His desire / MM request is to step more fully into his own power to open the doors to his own prosperity and companionship. MM request for a woman's mother with Alzheimer's. MM request for business partner who is not performing and taking every penny one woman has to live on. MM see back for woman dealing with people who are arrogant and make power plays. Mother of 3 boys learns how to evoke peace and support in her home. One woman asks and learns how to make people do what you want them to do. A beautiful MM request is created for a mother of a college student is deeply concerned about her daughter's living arrangements and life choices at this time. A New York City actor wants to win the lottery and to act. The last request of the evening is for staying in peace while with people who are on different paths.

Yes! The TeleClass/MM Coaching session is available for purchase with instructions on how to listen to it online, download it and burn it on a CD to listen to in your car or in your CD player.

ALREADY ACCOMPLISHED – Part 1

I intend to dramatically shorten your learning curve by giving you more scientific information to support even further what I've written about in all of my online courses and eBooks. I intend to show you, at an even higher level still, just how much power relabeling, holding thoughts of PEACE and the "love vibe" have for transforming difficult people and situations, especially in combination with the power of MasterMinding.

So hold on to your hats, 'cause we are going for a Quantum leap this spring!

In The Isaiah Effect, by Gregg Braden, he discusses what's happening in the field of medicine in a specialized clinic outside of Beijing.* Both he and his wife were studying the ancient healing art that is based on techniques of movement, breath, thought and feeling. A video showed very specific instructions on a phenomenon from Asian traditions which Western Science could not explain. Anomalous experiences of this kind are often classified as miracles. For people who had turned to this clinic as a last resort, the choice of love, specialized movement, and the development of life (ch'i) force, over medicine and surgery was the answer to their prayers.

Taken from The Isaiah Effect, Chapter 4 – Section: Medicineless Miracle

“The video tape we were learning from had been recorded at the Huaxia Zhineng Qigong clinic and Training Center , the “medicineless hospital” in the city of Qinhuangdao , China . The footage began by showing a female patient lying on her back in the clinical setting. She appeared to be fully awake and conscious, not anesthetized, and there were no indications that an anesthetic would be used. The woman was loosely clothed, and her shirt had been modestly drawn up to expose her lower abdomen. The lights of the video and the hospital room, her stomach glistened with the preparatory gel that appeared shiny and wet. Seated to the patient’s right, the nurse practitioner moved an ultrasound wand across the taut, smooth surface of the woman’s stomach.

Directly behind the patient were three male practitioners. Dressed in white medical jackets, they were standing only inches from her side. The men appeared to be very focused, standing quietly near her upper body . One of the men began a motion with his hands, silently moving them through the air above the woman’s face and chest.

The video next showed the ultrasound image, allowing us to peer into the woman’s bladder during the procedure. The lining and curvature were clearly present. In this image, something else began to appear, something that should not have been there. ‘You are looking at a bladder cancer,’ our instructor explained, ‘a tumor approximately three inches in diameter inside the woman’s bladder.’

We were seeing the tumor as it actually appeared in the moment, captured by the ultrasound wand. The camera zoomed in on the screen as we witnessed an event for which Western science has no explanation. Anticipating what was about to happen, our room became very still. Even the old folding chairs stopped squeaking while our group watched, in awe, as the miracle unfolded before our eyes.

While the nurse continued to monitor the event through the ultra sound, the three men standing behind the patient worked together. In unison, they participated in a mode of healing that has been known for centuries. The only sound that betrayed the process was coming from the men themselves. They repeated a single word again and again, a word that became louder and more intense as the healing progressed. Loosely translated into English, they were saying, ‘already gone, already accomplished.’

The shift began slowly, almost indiscernibly. The cancerous form began to quiver, as if responding to some unseen force. As the movement continued, with the rest of the image in perfect focus, the entire mass began to fade from view. Within seconds, the tumor appeared to melt before our eyes. In only two minutes and forty seconds, the tumor was gone. It had simply disappeared! A healing had occurred, one so complete that the ultrasound did not even indicate scarring in the tissue that the tumor had invaded. As the camera backed away from the computer screen, the patient, still awake and conscious, appeared to be relieved by what she heard in the room. The nurse and the three men conferred among themselves, then nodded in agreement; their process had been successful. Politely, each bowed from the waist and softly clapped his hands, acknowledging their accomplishment.

At first, our conference room was silent. Then I heard sighs that gave way to gasps and cheers for what we had witnessed. What had just happened? How had a cancerous tumor, three inches in diameter, disappeared from inside the woman's body without even the tell-tale scars of such a condition, in a matter of minutes?"

The key to this story and the healing of the woman's cancer is that the group's focus was on the feeling of the outcome rather than on the feeling of how long it was taking for the outcome to occur ... this is the essence of MasterMinding.

Let's look immediately at what thoughts you are having right now, in this moment.

Are you excited about the possibility of exactly what this means to the power of your thoughts to influence, affect and transform energy, people, situations and events?

Or...

Are you in disbelief?

Are you comparing this with some of the other "made for TV" footages that have been intentionally altered to make something look miraculous, when it was not?

Simply notice where you are putting your focus. No judgment. Just notice.

When I first read this, I may have been in disbelief had I not had so many instantaneous, miraculous experiences of my own to draw from.

In all of my courses and eBooks, I've explained in great detail the transformative energy of Love, Peace and Joy. These energies can transform any situation in an instant if you can get yourself to hold firmly to any one of these three pure energetic states.

The #1 criteria: You cannot feel fear, or judgment, and love in the same moment.

You must 'do' love, peace and joy unconditionally. Meaning that, for you to become proficient at the miraculous, you must seriously learn to manage your thinking, your intuitions and your emotions.

You must take it upon yourself to learn to think differently about everything that is not working in your life.

And yes, this most certainly means reading, studying the courses and eBooks you've purchased, and doing so daily.

What you don't know about me is that I spend 1-2 hours every morning in spiritual study and connection, in the ways that work best for me.

This includes spiritual reading, writing, thinking as big as I can stretch and asking spirit for what I prefer.

This includes weekly MasterMind sessions with my husband. I write down absolutely everything I prefer and desire. I feel it. I emote about it. I embrace it as already so. There is nothing more important than that I get connected every day and MasterMind with another as often as needed.

This is what gets me miraculous results.

This is what gets me the insights I need to intuitively understand quickly any and all situations I'm observing that I may be of assistance in.

This is what helps me know what to say ...and equally as important, what not to say.

What are you deciding differently each and every day?

Roads & Rights-of-Way

I have purchased and read your e-book "You Can't Have an Attitude and Keep it a Secret" and I have read most every publication in your website and find them to be right on target with my own philosophy. Although I agree with your advice, it takes practice to live it. Once you get your own thoughts and actions under control and realize you have the capacity to affect change (how you react to what is going on is within your control), you figure out, although you can't control others, you can influence them. Learning how to do this more effectively is definitely benefiting me both personally and professionally. I do hope to participate in your future classes or seminars.

Mary, you have helped me see and understand the people in my world and myself and how we act and react to each other and the situations and how to accept "what is" and then use the Secret vibe. I feel less stress and more understanding as a result of the hows and whys. You make your writing not only conversational, but powerful ...and fun!
Susan Williams, Stylist

WOW! Hi Mary

Well, I would like to start off by saying THANK YOU for your words of wisdom. I was reading, "You Can't Have An Attitude & Keep It A Secret!" and I must say, I AM GUILTY!!! of trying to secretly have an attitude! lol. I recently had a situation where I was truly disappointed with some friends and instead of loving them, I tossed out some very harsh words. While I am not in the habit of swearing, other things that I've said can be just as painful. Well, to be honest, I'm working on it. I've spent most of my life not telling those who disappoint me how I really feel. Now that I'm married, my husband really encourages me to speak my mind - because then he has to hear it all night! hahaha! So, now that I'm sharing 'my mind', sometimes I feel I'd be better off not saying anything because my words tend to be so hurtful towards those people even when I'm not expressing how hurt I may have been. I see now that my attitude does come across, even in my 'nice' talk with my friends. And it sounds so bitter. Well, I read your information and I am committed to trying your techniques to speak lovingly to everyone - not just those who are 'loving' toward me. Besides, that is a life long principle worth holding on to. Thanks again and Godspeed on your work!!!
