Family Matters and the Prospering Power of Love

See now that all of the dark memories of the past have vanished as the mist before the sun.

The Holiday Season is a perfect time to soften hardened attitudes and give up being so right about other people's faults and shortcomings, as well as harsh attitudes about our own idiosyncrasies. This is a time to surrender the need to be a victim about anything and everything that has occurred in our lives that we've participated in up to this point. Giving thanks for the good that comes through life's journey is highly healing.

You have so much power, and so much light and love in you to literally transform any and all situations, if you will only be willing - to be willing - to receive a Higher Point of View.

Be willing to be willing. Be willing to have any unyielding, fault-finding perceptions be shifted, altered: transformed in you, through you, about you ... and about others.

Be willing to change your mind about: family members, love, money and about what's possible with your health.

Be willing for the answers to be so much easier than you ever allowed yourself to ask for, or accept.

Any hard-mindedness is just about what's been learned ...so far! The only reason anything (relationships, money, health) is hard is because we fight so hard to keep what we've learned "right" ... we fight to retain status quo, even though the very energy-depleting decisions we are fighting to keep are life defeating, life draining.

Understand that not all of what you learned is totally correct or accurate. If your life has lack in any or all areas, then it's just "the school you went to," nothing more, nothing less. Enter into a new school of knowledge and daily flex your spiritual muscle, and you will prosper as you were intended to.

Any area of your life that is deficient, causing pain or lack, it's a knowledge problem. There's more to learn, to think about and to ponder. Seek new uplifting knowledge every day.

Love is a lifting energy. When you focus upon Love, rather than attending to "what is not" yet manifest, then you vibrate higher and higher.

Money (or relationships, health, weight) are not the base of your problems. It's Love. Love and appreciation of the You that you came here to be, through your unique and special gifts, talents and heart offerings.

Love the whole who of You that you are, and from that will come the creativity to easily and effortlessly sell what you love.

Love your family, your friends, your business associates with the Spirit of unconditional love and regard, and you will find that all areas of your life will be lifted up and prospered.

Love your purpose, your passion of what you came here to be, do and have. Appreciate your own uniqueness, and you are able then to appreciate uniqueness in others.

You cut off all the prosperity trying to make it's way to you by continuously focusing on the lack in your life. The lack of money, the lack of loving, supporting relationships, the lack of health. Surely you can see how these are all tied in together.

You lift one area of your life, you lift all.

Lighten up, and you lift up with the Prospering power of Love!

Roads & Rights-of-Way

I have purchased and read your e-book "You Can't Have an Attitude and Keep it a Secret" and I have read most every publication in your website and find them to be right on target with my own philosophy. Although I agree with your advice, it takes practice to live it. Once you get your own thoughts and actions under control and realize you have the capacity to affect change (how you react to what is going on is within your control), you figure out, although you can't control others, you can influence them. Learning how to do this more effectively is definitely benefiting me both personally and professionally. I do hope to participate in your future classes or seminars.

Mary, you have helped me see and understand the people in my world and myself and how we act and react to each other and the situations and how to accept "what is" and then use the Secret vibe. I feel less stress and more understanding as a result of the hows and whys. You make your writing not only conversational, but powerful ...and fun!
